FROM THE CHIEF EXECUTIVE

I am very glad to admit that considering environment this year we are not printing this whole report to have low paper consumption. The year 2010-2011 was dedicated for adoption of climate change adoption issue and hence, that will be continuing in future. The year 2010-2011 is another successful year of YPSA when it's celebrating its 27th years. YPSA (Young Power in Social Action) is a social development organization of Bangladesh started in 1985. It aims to promote sustainable development through a holistic approach. YPSA implementing various development programs as per the community needs. YPSA is one of the organizations who believes and has proved that working with the people rather than working for the people is essential for sustainable development.

Since its inception YPSA is working to bring an effective and positive change in its working area which is the greater Chittagong. The dynamic and innovative attitude of our young led team is the core strength of the organization development and its contribution to the society. YPSA is very much committed to work with Excellencies, sincerity, transparency and accountability which helped us to gain the recognition from grass root level to the international level.

YPSA finalized its third strategic plan 2008-2013, this year 2010-2011 is the moment for interim evaluation because of the "Millennium Development Goals (MDG)" and the Bangladesh Government policies written in the document "National Strategy for Accelerated Poverty Reduction." For the remaining period YPSA will accumulate these goals into concrete action plans in its next organizational strategic plan.

YPSA is greatly indebted to our donors, partner organizations, local and international volunteers, well-wishers, beneficiaries and community people for their cooperation. It is also grateful to the General Body, Executive Committee and YPSA staff for their contribution in the achievements of YPSA. This yearly report gives the reader a good overview of all the running programs and projects of YPSA.

Special thanks go to the Organizational Learning and Reflection Unit (OLR) and Publication unit who are responsible for the preparation of the yearly report.

Organizational Background

The youth community comprises of half the world's population. With the view of creating world wide awareness about the youth community and to ensure youth participation in the development arena, the UN General Assembly on 3rd November 1978, according to its resolution no. 33/7, declared the years 1981-90 as Youth Decade and 1985 as International Youth Year.

As a result various programs were launched throughout the world for the development of youth and to inspire them to take part in these development programs.

Many initiatives were also undertaken at Government and Non-Government level in Bangladesh to launch youth activities on a large scale. Many youth organizations and youth programs were created as awareness increased. As a result Bangladesh along with the rest of the world began to prepare to celebrate International youth year. In 1985 the UN and national sponsorship observed International Youth Year with great enthusiasm and in this regard the 1st November and subsequently 1st December was declared National Youth Day in Bangladesh.

In this context, some socially conscious youths in Sitakund Upazilla in the Chittagong District, began to motivate and organize the youth community of the region in order to establish a development organization.

In this way on 20th May 1985 by active initiation of the socially conscious youth, a social development organization called YPSA (Young Power in Social Action) began its course of participation in the development process.

YPSA Logo explanation

YPSA Logo

There are four distinct parts in the logo of YPSA. In the center there is a woman, a man and a child representing different parts of the population, gender equality and the co-existence of generations. They are holding hands with each other symbolizing organized strength, mutual cooperation, the relationships between different parts of the community, unity, and networking. It also symbolizes a planned family.

The sun and its rays indicate unified and integrated work, and the interim results towards achieving YPSA's goals. YPSA emerged as a social force through united and integrated efforts to eliminate injustice and oppression in the society. The white portion symbolizes social problems that have been reduced through planned and collaborative efforts after the ray of the sun. This part also stands for optimism.

The dark parts of the logo indicate current social injustice and oppression. One part stands for the problems created at the local level while the other for the problems created by the policies and activities at national and international levels affecting people's life, livelihoods and society.

YPSA's position is in the white part of the logo where its blue colour symbolizes depth and sublimity. In every sphere, the organization positions itself on the basis of in-depth observation, participation and sustainability.

Background: YPSA's Project Target Group and Area

Chittagong's illegal sex trade has been estimated to add US$10 million to the local economy every year and there is approximately 2000 Street Based Sex Worker (SBSW) in the Chittagong area. Since Chittagong is a sea port area, it has a high number of migrant workers. This increases demands within the sex trade and the chances of spreading the infection throughout Bangladesh quickly. Traffickers bring women and female children from Myanmar and the tribal areas of Bangladesh. This group is particularly vulnerable to HIV/AIDS because of their lowly regarded status in society and their high-risk profession. They are marginalized and often abused by their dalaals (pimps) and local police officers. Some are also involved in substance abuse. This group is stigmatized and has limited or no options for economic development, health care, and legal services. Most of them are illiterate and have very limited means of acquiring information and knowledge, especially concerning HIV/AIDS. This makes them especially vulnerable to HIV/AIDS, as a result of unprotected vaginal intercourse with clients and/or husbands; lack of awareness on how to prevent transmission; poverty; and lack of rights and status within Chittagong society¹.

The major client groups of SBSWs in Chittagong are dockworkers and rickshaw pullers, followed by sailors (local and foreign) and truck drivers. Medical treatment seeking for STIs is low for sex workers and their clients. However, the informal and traditional medicine sectors are consulted. Condoms are not included as standard prevention of STIs and moralistic prescriptions are considered sufficient to elicit preventive behavior.

Vigorous HIV/AIDS awareness campaigns for the SBP and their clients, and the encouragement of regular condom use, are necessary to prevent an explosive epidemic².

YPSA has been implementing the SBP project since November 2002 to inform this group and its clients about HIV/AIDS in the hope of preventing more HIV infections. The ultimate goal is to maintain the health of the SBP group and to reduce the future spread of HIV, and impact of AIDS, in Bangladesh.

The following table indicates the baseline date of SBP in Chittagong from 2002. The information illustrates that SBSWs are a very disadvantaged group of women in society.

Future Plan:

Children of SBSWs

Most SBSWs have children and if they stay with their mothers they are usually illiterate. To help break the cycle of poverty it is suggested that a daycare/primary education centre be started where mothers could rely on a safe and enriching environment for their children. A nurturing environment is especially important for these children, as they tend to be marginalized, homeless, and uncared for. They eventually turn to the only community they are familiar with either becoming sex workers themselves or mastans (pimps).

Rehabilitation of SBSW's

By conducting group focus sessions with prostitutes and asking what type of services they want, it was determined time and time again that they would like to possess a skill that would help them get out of prostitution. The majority wants sewing, embroidery, and batik training sessions. To get these women out of this line of work would not only be beneficial to stem the spread of HIV/AIDS but would give them a greater sense of self worth, pride in their work, and independence.

IHC for Clients of Prostitutes

Targeting clients poses difficulties in the field because it is hard to ensure that all participate in group sessions and fully understand the issues. Establishing an IHC that would cater specifically to clients could be more effective in transmitting information and in motivating them to receive treatment to prevent the further spread of STIs.

- Increasing the number of general health sessions held at each IHC per month.
- Helping to improve sex workers' children's futures by facilitating more of them to attend school.
- Expanding the skills training initiative to include areas other than textiles.

Background:

Adolescent's reproductive health has become one of the most widely discussed and sensitive health issues. "Adolescent reproductive and sexual health refers to the physical and emotional well-being of adolescents and includes their ability to be healthy and remain free from to early or unwanted pregnancy, unsafe abortion, sexually transmitted diseases (STDs) including HIV/AIDS, and sexual violence and coercion" (Senderowitz, 1995; WHO, 1998). Adolescents constitute one-fifth of the world's population. In Bangladesh, as in many developing countries, adolescents are a large and growing population that includes those between 10-19 years of age (UNFPA 1998a). Adolescents comprise 25% total population in Bangladesh, approximately 33 million in the year 2001 (Y.Siddique & M. Kabir, 2002). Among them 52% are male, while 48% are female (BDHS Survey, 1999-2000). The annual growth rate of adolescent population is 4.33 percent, compared with 1.7 percent for the total population. Adolescence marks the passage of children into adulthood and without the proper guidance and availability of accurate information, it can lead one to unnecessary risk taking behavior.

During Adolescence, most children do not complete the process of achieving physical and emotional maturity. This developmental stage involves many complex processes including menarche, developing close friendships, dealing with peer pressure, struggling with identity, becoming aware of one's own sexuality, gaining independence, etc. Health and developmental statistics have demonstrated that, adolescents are at increased risk of wide variety of reproductive health issues. Here in Bangladesh, BBS statistics (1998) show that 12.7 percent of adolescents were already married and although the contraception use among married adolescent are on the increase, unmet needs still remain high.

Indigenous people mostly deprived of diversified development interventions particularly in the field of Income Generating Activities. Although there are many NGOs are working in the Rangamati hill tract but only few NGOs are working for capacity development of the indigenous women in the Rangamati Municipal Corporation area and Kawkhali Upazila. From the experience, YPSA realized that only credit support cannot ensure the permanent positive economical change of targeted people so, if they are provided technical support like as training on IGA management & skill development on product/trade, marketing linkage, business development service etc. at the same time financial support as a start up cost of that IGA income level of targeted people will be significantly increased which will lead to ensure sustainability their self-employment activities. Background: Bangladesh is one of the most densely populated countries in the world, the population density according to 2004 figures stood at 790per sq km. Growing at the present rate of 2.08%per annum, there will be a net increase of 50.14 Million by the year 2020. This alarming increase is obviously having a major impact on the issue of unemployment.

The labour force survey of 1996 by the Bangladesh Bureau of Statistics (BBS) showed that the employment rate was 34.6% in 1995-96, and magnitude of the problem was greater in rural areas standing at 37.09%, as opposed to 19.6% in urban areas. The Magnitude of employment has more than doubled in the last decade, increasing from 17.1% in 1983-84, to 34.6% in 1995-96, The situation has further deteriorated because of the high growth rate of the labour force is increasing at a rate that cannot be accommodated by the youth employment rate.

In spite of these alarming indicators young people from Bangladesh are earning a huge foreign remittance that makes a significant contribution to foreign exchange reserves. This was made possible by our migrant labour force working abroad, mostly in other Asian countries and in particularly, the Middle East. As noted earlier, due to the employment rate being much higher at rural and sub-urban areas, most of these migrant labours come from these socio-economic settings. Fact is, the bulk portion of our labour force have a very limited literacy and skill level and have therefore, migrated as unskilled labour. Not only that the country depends on them for foreign exchange but hundreds of thousands of families also rely on them.

Like Others part of Bangladesh, the sub-urban and rural part of Bangladesh also employs significant number of migrant labours to the above mentioned areas in sitakund 53% of the families and in mirsarai around 59% of the families have migrating family members working as labour abroad. Due to their limited literacy level, unavailability of relevant information and proper consultancy service, most of these migrants labour suffer from more or less the same problems. These includes, cheating by the middleman, fake and unregistered travel agencies and bankers in the name of free visa, steady job and other facilities. Moreover, some social leaders and government officials are also heard to be taking advantage of their lack of knowledge.

Major Activities:

- ▶ Create and Collect the demand for loan from migrants
- ▶ Information collect from four banks about loan opportunities for migrants (migration and investment)
- ▶ Information collect about remittance status and account holder (migrants) in quarterly basis from local bank
- ▶ Collect and prepare data on complains of migrants (online and form distribution)

Background: It is in the constitution of the Republic of Bangladesh to ensure gender equality. However, the actual situation as we all know is quite the opposite. Violence against women still prevails in this country in large. Forty seven percent of Bangladeshi women have experienced some sort of physical violence by the hands of their intimate partners in their family. If psychological violence were included, the figure would have been much higher. Every week, more than ten women in Bangladesh becomes victim of acid attack that leaves them brutally disfigured, and often blind and disabled. A study in Bangladesh shows that 32 percent of women working outside their homes experience disruption of their work due to incidents of domestic violence. Other sorts of domestic violence against women includes rapes, forced prostitution, honor-killing, trafficking etc. Chittagong district is more vulnerable for domestic violence against women in Bangladesh due to it's religious conservativeness. The female workers of Garments in Chittagong city area always suffer domestic violence. The women of coastal areas, rural areas of Chittagong district, slum areas of Chittagong city also sufferer. Violence against women is not even recognized as violence within the existing social structure. It has been continuing since ages by tradition.

A few women's organizations are currently operating in Chittagong district. But their activities are limited within the elite class & are mostly office based. They have taken few initiatives and have limited capacity to work in this field. Grassroots women are not involved with these organizations. In the Chittagong city the slum dweller poor families are come from different village of different districts. Male & female both are not aware on domestic violence. In fact women are victims through the domestic violence in many Upazilla under this district. Moreover, the law enforcement departments have failed to take effective steps. Besides, their own behavior and attitude go against the effected women as they are not gender sensitive.

- Restoration of tree cover and biodiversity and sustainable management of the forest
- Improvement of livelihood of the poor people living in and around the forests and their access to fuel wood through alternative means

- Creation of opportunities for revenue generation from forest recreation or eco-tourism based activities benefiting local communities

Duration:

June 2009 – May 2012

Location & Target Coverage:

Forest based:

The project area is 3773 ha. of Bariadhala Beat and Gobania Beat under Chittagong North Forest Division.

Community based:

Considering the forest area, we have been implementing program of activities in 15 villages. At community based, we are working in 5 villages of 2 No Bariadala union, 4 villages of 15 No Wahedpur union and 6 villages of 9 No Mirsharai union under Sitakund & Mirsharai Upazilla

				Female	67	641	708
				Total	496	2347	2843

Background:

The vast hilly areas of Chittagong North Forest Division have been denuded for many years. Poor people of surrounding areas collect fuel wood, leaf-litters, bamboos, broom grass and medicinal plants from the scrub forest.

The Forest Department (FD) has been implementing the GOB funded 'Reforestation of Denuded Hills' project since 2000-01. The project intervention includes establishment of plantations involving both short and long-rotation species, under participatory afforestation scheme. The major species of trees that are planted are: Akashmoni, Mangium and Hybrid Acacia as short-rotation (10-12 yrs) species and Garjan, Chapalish, Sil koro, Chikrashi, Dhaki jam, Telshur, and Boilam as long-rotation species. The benefit sharing arrangement of the project includes 45% of the final tree harvest (also of thinning) for the participants, 45% for the Forest Department and 10% for Tree Fund. The participants are organized into 10-15 member committees. The participants plant country bean and ginger under the young plantation (1-2 years), but there is no other provision for promoting alternative income generating (AIG) activities among the participants.

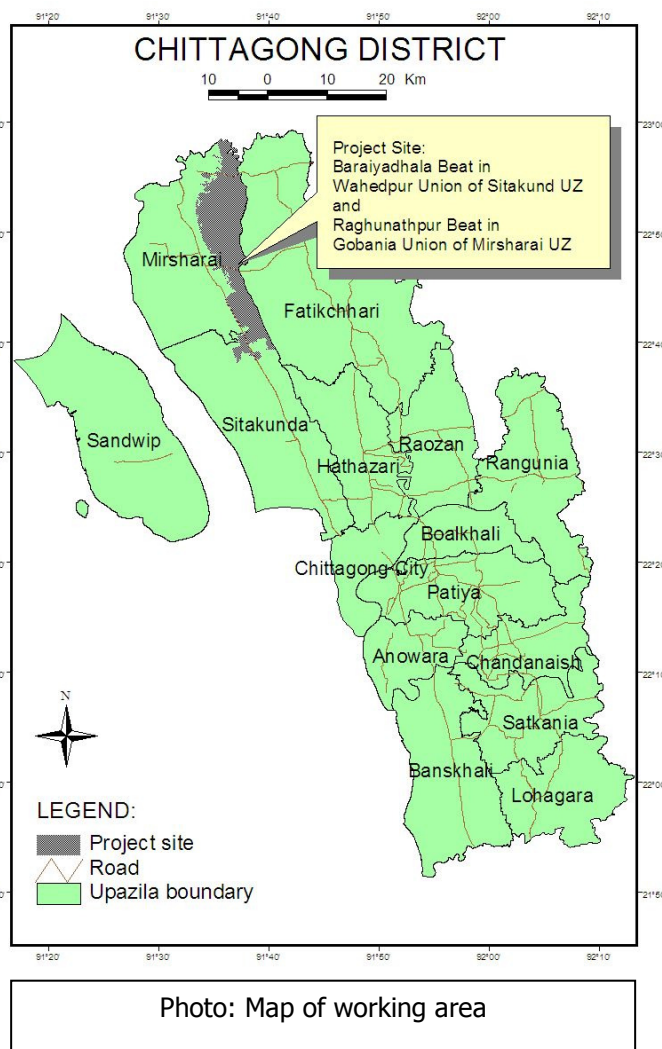

With a target to cover 5,000 ha of the denuded hills in the Chittagong North Forest Division in its first phase, the above project achieved 70 – 80% of the target. The second phase of the project is expected to start in the current (2007-08) fiscal year for another 5 years. Even the prospective second phase of the above project would not cumulatively cover 50% of the total area of denuded hills in the Chittagong North Forest Division.

Moreover, many of the plantations have failed to survive after their initial establishment (as long as the project had close monitoring) due to alleged destruction by people. People set fire in the forest for raising sun grass and to get fertilizer (of ashes) effect in their crop field below the hill. They also do not like the hills to grow into forest harboring wildlife that damage their crops and poultry birds. The fire also occurs from careless disposal of burning cigarette butts by the forest going people.

The experience, therefore, reveals that concerted efforts are needed in order to get the forest (and bio-diversity) back in the denuded hills, which should include peoples' awareness raising, assisted natural regeneration or enrichment planting, creation of alternative livelihood opportunities for the forest dependent people, prevention of forest fire and making people proactive in protecting the forest.

Major Activities:

- Identification of forest users
- Study of socio-economic context of the forest users (incl. people of adjacent villages)
- Categorization and formation of groups of forest users for participatory program planning
- Vegetation survey (incl. nature of regeneration)
- Delineation of area for core zone and buffer zone
- Establishment of co-management council (CMC)
- Development of a complete management plan for the delineated forest area (by CMC)
- Assisting natural regeneration and enrichment planting of native species (including aftercare) in the core zones

- Planting of short and long rotation species (in the form of woodlot or agro forestry) in participatory approach in the buffer zones
- Establishment of management guidelines for utilization of minor forest products
- Monitoring and protection of the forest and plantation by allocating area for each care taker / FUG
- Provision of seed money to the association of forest users' groups (FUG) for establishing revolving fund for IGA
- Training of people on IGAs to be selected by the FUGs
- Awareness raising activities (community meeting, mass communication through TV and print media) on forest and biodiversity conservation and forest fire protection among local community members and leaders to establish fire lines in the plantation areas and existing forests

Next year Plan:

Institutional development of the project participants:

For effective protection and restoration of targeted forest area and its conservation of bio-diversity, we will form a co-management system by involving local govt. officials, FD, local communities, local leaders, different businessmen, FUG members, VCF members etc. Finally 1 CMC will be formed. CMC will be formed to take support from FD and different stakeholders. Community based institutional capacity shall be developed through training, meeting, exchange visit etc. project.

Livelihood development of the project participants:

For skill development of poor forest dependent people different IGA trainings, demonstration work on technology transfer at field level, study visit, field visit, meeting etc will be organized. Co-ordination work will be strengthening to take different support from different development agencies. Through group savings, the CBOs will be developed a revolving fund and grand will provide to CMC to establish fund for IGA activities.

Restoration of forest cover and biodiversity:

For restoration of tree cover and bio-diversity, we will arrange different awareness activities like (community meeting, group meeting, VCF meeting, songs and drama, day observation) at our project areas. We will assist FD and CMC to develop sustainable forest management plan for respective forest emphasis on forest fire control, control soil erosion, enrichment planting in the degraded areas, natural regeneration, wild life protection etc.

Ecotourism development:

CMC will be developed ecotourism to enrich natural beauty and extend public facility at our project area. Opportunity will be study at 3 selected points (Sahashradara, Bouwachara and mahamaya prakalpa) to establish ecotourism at our project area.

► Name of the Program/ Project/ Unit:Herbarium:

In botany, herbarium is a collection of preserved plant specimens that are mounted and systematically classified for botanical study, reference and research. These specimens may be whole plants or plant parts, these will usually be in a dried form, mounted on a sheet, but depending upon the material may also be kept in alcohol or other preservative.

Back Ground & Rationale:

Sitakund was one of the richest areas of biodiversity in Chittagong until the independence of Bangladesh. Hooker and Thomson had made a number of collections from sitakund during their visit to Chittagong in 1851 (khan 1991b) and recorded many species in the Flora of British India (Hooker 1872-1892). Heinig (1925) included 36 species from Sitakund. Khan (1985) recorded 11 species of the family Convolvaceae from Sitakund in the Flora of Bangladesh. But there have been no intensive explorations and published reports exclusively on the Flora of Sitakund.

The vegetation has largely been destroyed by logging and fire wood collection by local people. Both homestead and forest shrubby jungles have cleared by local people thus, greatly depleting the biodiversity in the area. Locally available medicinal plants have been collected from the primary source for traditional healthcare system at community level. Many rare and medicinally important plant species have been locally threatened. Loss of biodiversity is occurring at all levels. Ecosystem and communities are being degraded and destroyed and species are being driven to extinction due to various human activities. So there is an urgent need to survey, collect, identify and inventory of plants.

YPSA- Herbarium is a link organization of YPSA and also a documentation center of herbarium because it contains the plant specimens with systematic classification, plants belongings to new discoveries, plants of economic importance, and voucher specimens of cytological and cytogenetic studies, photographs of important plants and all decampments related systematic research. Geneticist, Chemists, Pharmacists, and Botanists can use the modern herbarium as floral data bank. The herbarium works as a service institution to provide training for Young undergraduates on plant study, solve quires of scientist, environmentalists, doctors, students etc.

Study area:

Initially the study area covers Sitakund Forest zone and than other areas of Bangladesh.

Goal:

To establish a well developed herbarium centre for floral identification and systematic classification through plant genetic and diversity analysis.

Objectives:

- Conserve plant genetic resources and develop a red data book for plant systematic classification, plant evaluation, plant genetic and plant diversity analysis.
- Conserve threatened species and also to identify threatened species and statistical data analysis.
- To support for improved new variety through wild species analysis.
- Raise social awareness to improve environmental situation through bio-diversity conservation.

Function of herbarium:

- Preserve specimen through systematic taxonomic study.
- Plant evaluation, plant genetics, plant diversity, plant taxonomy analysis are conducted based on herbarium specimen.
- It is the major source of information about plant and vegetation through plant specimen and permanently stored in herbarium.

- A picture of all species of a genus or all the genera of a family can be gathered only through herbarium.
- Total information of a sp. is described on the herbarium.
- List of endangered species of any region can be prepared through herbarium study.
- Herbarium provides loan of specimens for study at other institutions.
- Herbarium preserves the national plant wealth and provides scientific information to the public regarding the plants.

- Herbarium plays role as an information bank of plant specimen.
- Herbarium provides training to the students in herbarium practices.

Present status of YPSA- Herbarium:

In YPSA- Herbarium there has 401 preserved different collected plant specimen. Specimens have been classified and documented by following systematic classification. Different data of plant specimen on nature, habit, habitat, diversity condition have been recorded in YPSA-Herbarium. Students, Botanist, different scientist, environmentalist come to the YPSA-Herbarium to visit and also for reference collection for identification of different plant specimen.

Future plan:

- Collection and identification of new specimen.
- Study on cytogenesis and physiology of plant specimen.
- YPSA-Herbarium has a plan to study new area.
- To develop a computer data base for restoration of different information of YPSA-Herbarium.
- To publish a document on Flora of Sitakund.

Aungshee (Display & Sales Center) ReportIntroduction:

From the study, it has been observed that only credit cannot ensure the permanent positive economical change of targeted people. Keeping the view in mind Micro Enterprise Development Program (MEDP), one of the major programs of YPSA has been providing technical support along with credit support to the micro entrepreneur. Through experience it is realized that the main obstacle to develop entrepreneurship is marketing. Grassroots entrepreneur does not know how to marketing and how to compete with big entrepreneur. As a result they are losing their inspiration to be a good entrepreneur. Realizing this importance of product marketing YPSA has been giving the priority to marketing the grassroots entrepreneur's product through MEDP. For assisting the marketing of grassroots entrepreneur's product YPSA already established 2 display and sale centers namely Aungshee with the support of ILO and Action Aid Bangladesh at Chandgaon R/A and Sitakund of Chittagong respectively. Through these centers products of entrepreneur is being displayed and sold among the local and foreign customer.

These centers have been established as commercial basis, the Aungshee will follow so all types of commercial activities. Though initially these centers are focusing on local market but in long run there is a plan to catch up foreign market through exporting. Besides this, efforts are continuing to shift the Aungshee from Chandgaon R/A to any suitable commercial center of Chittagong. To meet up this objective Aungshee has been participating in local and International trade fair

Building Bridges through Leadership Development

Supported by: Davis Project for Peace and MIT

Building Bridges

We have three distinct schooling systems in Bangladesh – English medium, Bengali medium and Madrassa. There is little or no interaction between students from different educational system. We believe that this divisiveness in society is a threat to progress in our country if future leaders, in whatever field, cannot understand where the other half of the population is coming from, then how will they exercise correct judgement and leadership. Therefore, one objective of our program is to bridge this gap by uniting participants from diverse backgrounds.

Leadership Training

A good leader is somewhat like a good doctor. Just as the doctor must diagnose the patient accurately to ensure effectiveness of the prescribed drug, the leader must also be able to diagnose problems, voices, and values, and come up with effective solutions work if the diagnosis is wrong? Therefore, another objective of our program is to help participants develop diagnostic skills through large class discussions and small group case analysis.

Community Service

At BYLC does not use the word 'leadership' in a value manner. Values are at the core of our program. We believe that leadership as a position of authority alone is of no use unless it delivers positive results for others. We believe that training in itself is not good enough. Action is important. Therefore, the third objective of our program is to help participants apply their skills and knowledge in a real world setting by serving in their local community.

There is now growing evidence of the role that ICTs can play in enhancing development. In spite of this enabling potential & role, ICTs are yet to be widely mainstreamed to assist developing countries in addressing traditional development problems with innovative solutions & approaches that are both effective and more easily scalable & replicable. YPSA has been a pioneer in this area with its ICT enabled development activities since the very early days. Besides NSU has been implementing several holistic programmes which has a great impact in the society. Gender discrimination and male domination creates such an environment in every sphere of life which deteriorates the position and status of women and girls made them always be back seated, second class citizen since generation to generation. Female are considered as burden, society are being deprived from the real contribution from them.

Through Community Mobilization Project to End Violence Against Women we want to make aware the people of various realms about the bad consequences of Domestic Violence against Women and girls. We are also providing legal supports towards oppressed women.

YPSA AND MDG:

All the programmes of YPSA are related to the MDG. The philosophy of YPSA is that people are only able to work on their economical independence when their basic needs like food and an acceptable home are fulfilled. Therefore our health care programs are central activities in helping poor adolescents and adults to gain a better health, to give birth to children in better conditions and to give information about family planning. The next step is to help the beneficiaries in their general education (reading and writing) and to develop a profession. Our ICT4D, human rights awareness, HIV prevention, education Programmes and special programmes like-MEDP, GAGEE, PSCP etc. look developing women by providing training to women to become professionals in delivery- assistance are examples. There are other programmes which are working to ensure the human rights of marginalized people.
